

Error state - search result not selected

User does NOT tap on a search result, taps into the Drop-off field instead

The text they typed in the "Add stop" field is still displayed, though technically it i

User can't proceed to Mode Selector until they've selected an actual location, so we should display error text.

Search results should still be preserved, so the user knows which action to take (currently we wipe the search results and display recommended & recent destinations instead, which is confusing).
